

Confidence Index

— QUARTER 3, 2018 —

Leadership has been in the headlines for all the wrong reasons, but it has done little to dampen the spirits of business leaders and CEOs around Australia. SME leaders are heading into the last quarter of 2018 in a similar fashion to the way they started it; with a positive growth mind-set, highly skilled talent and disruptive technology set firmly in their sights.

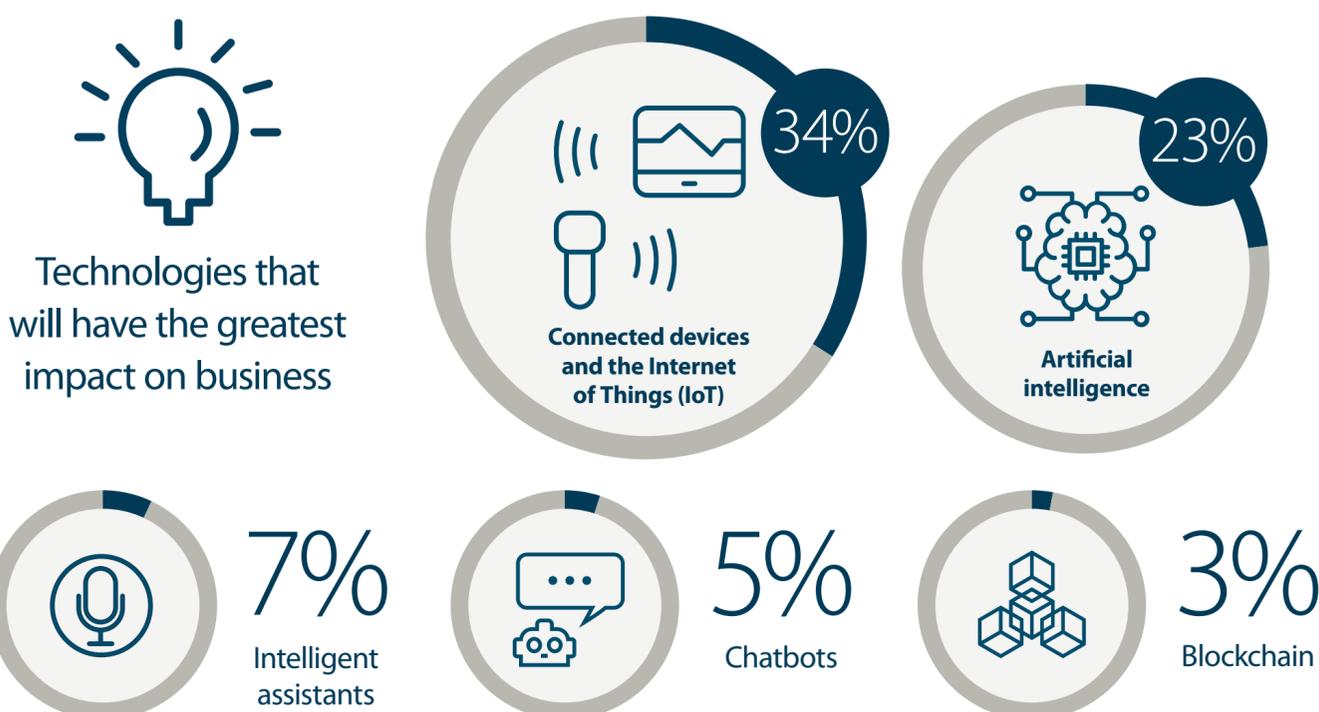

Going for growth

Business leaders and CEOs of Australian organisations are on an upward trajectory and won't be deterred from realising gains across people, profits and processes.

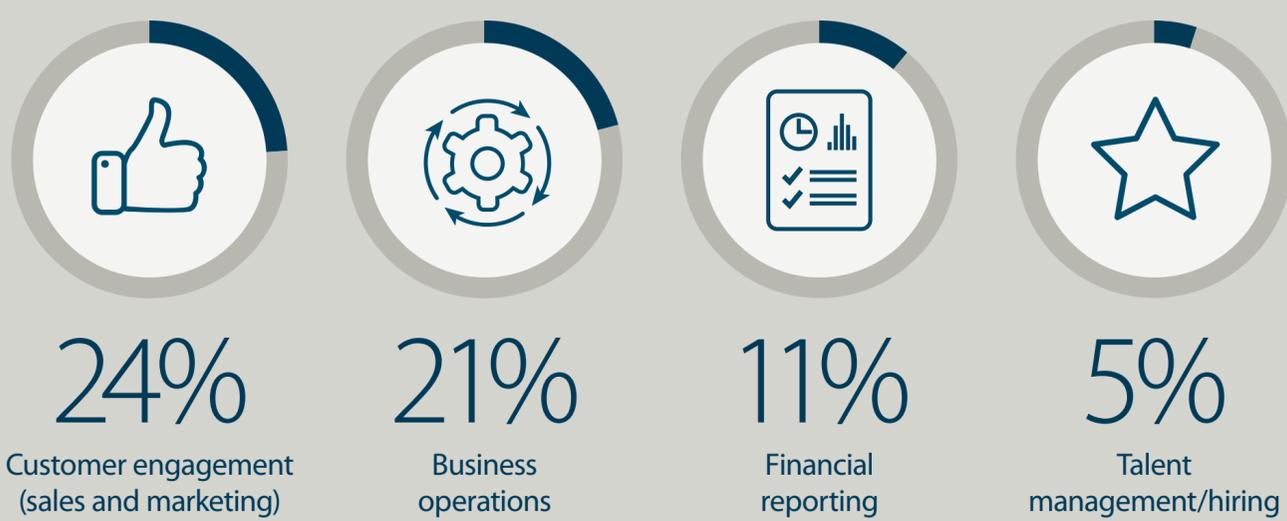

Tech designed for impact

Technology is fundamentally transforming the way businesses operate, and embracing disruptive and innovative technology can be the difference between a business trading water and delivering long-term growth.

AI in business

SME business leaders are deploying AI in...

Investing in software

CEOs and business leaders are making investments in software/applications to support all business functions.
